Work on the traffic signal at Northwest Renfro Street and Northeast McAlister Road is starting today.

The new traffic signal will control north and southbound traffic and drivers who are heading west on McAlister Road. It will make it easier for drivers coming off of McAlister to turn left on to Renfro Street. The traffic signal is part of the Brushy Mound median opening project that was completed within the last year.

Drivers should expect some lane closures over the next 120 days, but traffic will always be able to proceed in all directions. No pavement has to be removed at Renfro Street and McAlister, so the work will be set up during the day and taken down at night. As always, please watch out for workers and other drivers in the construction zone.
