WAYLAID AT THE LIVERY

Cinch up yer saddle and join the posse partner-- we've got a murder to solve!

That's right, ol' "Horse Face Jack" has done been put out to pasture, but instead of grazin' he's pushing up daisies.

Why would someone want to send Horse Face to the glue factory? Was he feeling his oats with Fifi, the local saloon girl? Maybe he thought the Doc should get a dose of his own medicine? Could our proper Ms. Rita Book have wanted to re-write a chapter or two? Or was this just a case of mistaken identity? And will Marshal Courtright be able to round up the guilty party or will he have to call in the Canadian Mounties?

Horse Face Jack might have been smelly, lazy and an all-around rotten sort but a shot in the back ain't no suicide. So its up to you buck-a-roo to figure out "who done it" and bring the varmint to justice.
